Royal Caribbean Brings Urban Living Concept to Sea with Cruise Industry's First Lofts

Miami – The evolution of cruise ship hardware has been mindboggling over the past few decades, especially in the realm of accommodations. Inspired by urban living ideals, Royal Caribbean International has broken the mold yet again with the introduction of the industry's first two-level loft suites aboard Oasis of the Seas and Allure of the Seas. Think funky city apartment, only this one floats and happens to have incredible sea views from double-height windows.

Dramatically redefining cruise ship accommodations, the loft suites are the highest accommodations at sea and offer spectacular vistas of the ocean with floor-to-ceiling windows, ensuring the view will be enjoyed from every corner of the space. Other features among these coveted 28 lofts include a unique modern design accented with abstract, modern art pieces, spacious living areas on the lower level, with contemporary detailing, and a private balcony with sun chairs and stunning views to help guests unwind.

Fresh, chic and super functional, each loft measures more than 545 square feet (50 square meters). The impressive design includes an upper-level bedroom that overlooks the living area below. The downstairs sitting area has a couch, chaise lounge, LCD television, guest bathroom, 17 foot-high windows and balcony that opens up to sweeping sea views. Up top, the loft bed floats like a dream behind transparent panels for unobstructed scenes through the floor-to-ceiling windows without even getting out of bed. The upstairs master bathroom features his and her shower heads, fog-free mirrors, and limestone mosaic tile detailing. Beds are outfitted with white, luxurious duvets complemented by tropical blue and green accents that tie in to the loft's natural surroundings. The signature lofts rounds out a new portfolio of 37 categories of accommodation options, many with views unique to Oasis of the Seas and Allure of the Seas.
