ROYAL CARIBBEAN PARTNERS WITH MARITIME PROCUREMENT SERVICES TO TRANSFORM WASTE MANAGEMENT IN SOUTHERN QUINTANA ROO

The first-of-its-kind solid waste facility in Mahahual will enhance environmental protection and community well-being

MAHAHUAL, MX – March 26, 2026 – Royal Caribbean has announced a strategic partnership with Maritime Procurement Services (MPS) that aims to serve as the official operating partner for a new, state-of-the-art, technology-driven solid waste management facility to be developed in Mahahual, Quintana Roo.

The project will mark the first facility of its kind in southern Quintana Roo, setting a new benchmark for responsible waste management that will significantly strengthen local waste infrastructure in Mahahual. The facility will also help to implement a circular economy model, transforming waste into valuable resources, and driving environmental stewardship in the Mexican Caribbean.

“Partnering with a trusted, local operator such as MPS ensures that this facility will deliver lasting benefits to the region,” said Ari Adler, president, Royal Caribbean Group Mexico. “Together, we are taking concrete action to protect the ecosystems and communities that make the Mexican Caribbean so special.”

The new solid waste facility will incorporate advanced sorting technologies, closed-loop processing systems, high-efficiency material recovery solutions, and best-in-class environmental controls, enabling more efficient waste handling, resource recovery, and reduced reliance on landfills.

The project is expected to generate local jobs, expand regional circular economy opportunities, and support Mahahual’s sustainable growth by reducing environmental impact, and supporting the long-term health of surrounding ecosystems and communities.
